

NORBERT OCIOS

GAME DEV STUDENT

I am an computer science student with a passion for technology, games, and creating innovative solutions. My journey with programming began in college, where I gained knowledge in various areas including programming languages, game development, and website development. Thanks to various practical projects I develop my analitical stkills and cultivate my collaborative work abilities. Creativity, precision and most importantly, a desire to gain new experiences are the key values that guide my development.
